

Water Resource Planner

B&AP is a state-certified Walnut Creek, California, based professional services consulting firm specializing in water resource, environmental and regulatory planning. Our clients range in location within the San Francisco Bay Area, Monterey Bay, and throughout Southern California.

We are seeking an experienced Water Resources Planner to join our team. This key team member will be responsible for planning analysis, document preparation, project and task management, and will be involved in planning studies. Specifically, you will be involved in:

- Development of results for client specified issues including water supply/demand analysis, sustainable water supply development, recycled water, water conservation, construction and municipal storm water.
- Assist in the development and preparation of water demand and flow projections, planning programs, alternative analysis, feasibility studies and budgets for municipal and private clients.
- Development of conceptual and planning level infrastructure design, analysis, calculations, cost estimates and reporting.
- Supporting analysis of environmental effects (CEQA, CEQA+, NEPA) and regulatory compliance.

To qualify for this position, you will need to have:

- 7+ years' experience water resources planning and design with an emphasis in water related and environmental projects
- Strong knowledge of water resource issues including potable water, wastewater, recycled water, storm water and water conservation), environmental protection and planning, and all regulatory agencies requirements
- Ability to gather, analyze and interpret data and reports
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Strong command of Excel including ability to utilize graph, chart and data analysis functions.
- Proven ability to develop and present report findings.
- Extremely organized with ability to multi-task, prioritize, and flexibility to manage competing projects and deadlines seamlessly.
- Collaborative problem solver with ability to work independently and as a team.
- 10% travel required.

We offer a collaborative working environment with emphasis on creative and comprehensive solutions for our clients. We offer professional development support, healthcare benefits, paid time off, sick time, and a flexible working schedule.

Interested candidates should apply to careers@brezack.com and include resume, cover letter and salary requirements. No Calls Please.